

Tim Moriarty

Tim Moriarty is the Academic Director for the Pathfinder Regional Vocational Technical High School District in Palmer, MA. He earned his B.S. in Mathematics and Psychology from the University of Massachusetts and an M.Ed. in School Administration from American International College. He also attained CTE administrative certifications through attending both Massachusetts Association of Vocational Administrators Leadership Academy programs. He spent six years in high school math classrooms, three of which as a department head. He has been in his current role for three years, in which he has worked on shaping curricular, instructional, and assessment practices for the District.